More of us now use price comparison websites to find the best price on our Home Insurance.

But unless you really understand the product you're looking for, buying online might leave you exposed.

Cheap policies may come at a cost

You may find policies bought online offer generous discounts over their 'offline' counterparts.

But those savings could leave you out of pocket. Hidden policy excesses, standard 'default' terms that leave you under or over-insured and policy exclusions they could all stack the odds against you when it comes to making a claim.

An unsuitable policy could even lead to your claim being rejected by your insurer.

Get the right cover for you

By seeking professional advice on your Home Insurance, you'll get a policy that offers the cover you really need - without any hidden catches.

What's more, the buildings and contents policies that we offer advice on have been independently assessed and endorsed by Defaqto.

Defaqto is an independent researcher of products.

Make sure you're covered.
